Application Technique

Multi - Aesthetic Point Technique (MAPs)

The Multi-Aesthetic Point Technique (MAPs) is an injection protocol applied to the next-generation Phaseliss Mesolifter® in the Skin Revitalizing and Booster product category.

With the MAPs protocol, either five, six, or eight strategic points on one side of the face are

- determined for application. Subcutaneous injections are recommended to be applied symmetrically on both sides of the face.

When Phaseliss MesoLifter® is injected using the MAPs technique, the stabilized Ultra Pure

- Hyaluronic Acid Complex spreads across the skin, providing hydration and promoting skin texture renewal while addressing skin sagging.

The most frequently marked points for both sides

- of the face are shown in the accompanying model/image.

Application Technique

Multi - Aesthetic Point Technique (MAPs)

This injection protocol differs from other traditional

- mesotherapy injection techniques that require different injection points for various areas of the face.

The MAPs technique can be applied to the patient very quickly, making it a preferred method.

- Additionally, patients often have concerns about pain, bruising, and negative side effects following aesthetic or other injections. However, with the MAPs technique, the likelihood of rare side effects such as bruising, redness, and irritation at the injection site is significantly lower.

The MAPs technique is a suitable and popular injection protocol for Phaseliss MesoLifter®. However, this does not mean that it is the only injection protocol for Phaseliss MesoLifter®. As stated, Phaseliss MesoLifter® has a versatile injection protocol, and different techniques can be used based on the doctor's preference.

NONASEM[®]

Technology

ULTRAPURE
Hyaluronic Acid Complex

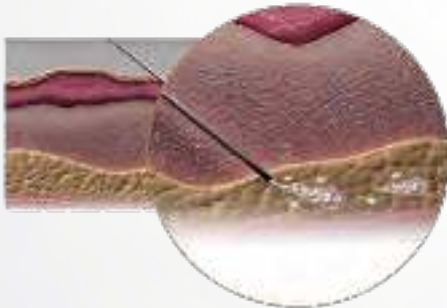

NONASEM[®] (Non-Disturbing Natural State Modification) technology preserves the natural structure of hyaluronic acid. With the advanced thixotropic production technique applied, a stable structure is formed through intermolecular ionic interactions, extending the degradation time within the body. The rheological properties achieve remarkable compatibility with the treated area. Thus, ultra-pure, biocompatible hyaluronic acid demonstrates its effects on the skin for an extended period.

Phaseliss MesoLifter[®] with these versatile properties, provides a lifting effect, firming of sagging areas, radiance, and moisturizing effects quickly after the first application.

Other Benefits of Phaseliss MesoLifter[®]

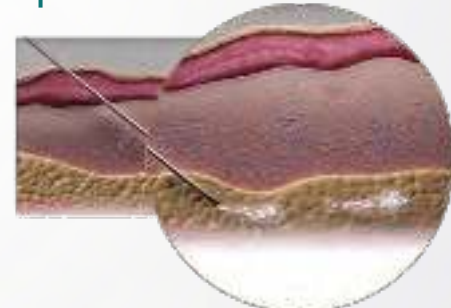

- Tightens the skin.
- Contributes to skin radiance.
- Prevents skin aging through hydration and stimulation.
- Restores the tone and firmness of the face and décolleté area.
- Reduces wrinkles based on a natural appearance, combating signs of aging.
- Improves the quality of skin areas with acne scars and red stretch marks.

Standard Filler

The molecules of standard gels tend to break under pressure, negatively affecting the durability of hyaluronic acid.

Thixotropic Filler

The molecules of Phaseliss MesoLifter[®] gel return to their original viscosities, allowing for long-lasting effects.
